- The Mediterranean basin, notably in ancient Greece and Rome.
- Egypt, where early scarabs and carved stones served symbolic and decorative purposes.

In ancient Greece, artisans developed cameo techniques that emphasized layered stones, enabling artists to carve images that showcased contrasting colors. The Romans, particularly during the Imperial period, refined cameo craftsmanship into a highly sophisticated art form, producing elaborate portrait cameos and mythological scenes.

Medieval and Renaissance Revival

After the decline of classical civilizations, cameo art experienced periods of diminished prominence but was revived during the Renaissance, driven by renewed interest in classical antiquity. Renaissance artists and collectors sought to emulate ancient cameo styles, leading to:

- The re-discovery of classical motifs.
- The development of new carving techniques.
- An increase in the production of cameo jewelry and decorative objects.

The Origins of Jewellery: A Prehistoric Perspective

Early Beginnings and Material Choices

Around 7000 years ago, during the Neolithic period, early humans began crafting jewellery as a form of personal adornment and symbolic communication. Initial materials were sourced from nature—animal bones, shells, stones, and rudimentary metals—reflecting both availability and the desire to embellish.
